

German Health Alliance

Who we are

The GHA – German Health Alliance is an initiative of the Federation of German Industries (BDI) and consists of more than 100 leading German actors virtually from all sectors: private sector and industry, NGOs, civil society and foundations, science and academia. The GHA thus is covering a very broad range of health expertise while sharing a strong international focus. GHA has its roots in development cooperation too. A section was established in 2010 together with the German Federal Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development to support German Health Actors in projects in LMICs and to build long-time partnerships.

What we do

GHA connects stakeholders from all sectors within its own network and far beyond including governments and international organizations.

This specifically enables the GHA to building reliable and sustainable long-term partnerships at eye level for jointly strengthening health systems, with specific focuses on Global Health and excellent, highest quality medical technologies, solutions & services necessary to broadly enhance health infrastructure and access to healthcare services. All this makes the GHA – German Health Alliance your dedicated and highly suitable access point to German health expertise.

Where we are

GHA is headquartered in Berlin and Bonn, Germany. The GHA and its members are active worldwide: America, Asia (e.g. Philippines, India, Nepal), Africa (e.g. Uganda, Nigeria, Ghana) and Europe.

Expectations from the workshop

- Building networks that are made available to GHA members;
- Building long-term partnerships.

Website

<https://gha.health/en/>

Contact

As representative: Fabian de Barreto, Managing Director EPOS Health Management, inke.fabiandebareto@epos.de